REPORT ON BEST OUT OF WASTE

On December 23, 2024, the Kagal Education Society hosted a special event to celebrate the birthday of the late Honorary President, Mr. Y. D. Mane Sir. In honor of his contributions to education and society, the event featured various competitions aimed at promoting environmental awareness and creativity. Among the key activities were the "Best Out of Waste" competition and the "Plastic Collection with Awareness" initiative. These events took place on the Kagal Education Society campus, with active participation from students across different departments.

The Institute of Nursing, particularly the B.Sc (N) first-semester students, played a significant role in both competitions, achieving outstanding results.

Objective:

The primary objectives of the event were:

1. To celebrate the life and legacy of the late Y. D. Mane Sir.
2. To engage students in creative and environmental initiatives that promote sustainability.
3. To raise awareness about the harmful effects of plastic waste and encourage its reduction and recycling.
4. To foster teamwork, creativity, and a sense of social responsibility among students.

The event began with a heartfelt tribute to Late Y. D. Mane Sir, followed by the commencement of the competitions. The two main competitions included:

1. Best Out of Waste:

Students were tasked with creating innovative and functional items using materials that would otherwise be discarded as waste. The goal was to promote the idea of reusing and recycling, highlighting the importance of reducing waste in our daily lives. Judge for Best out waste was, D.R. Mane Principal, Mrs. Joshi mam The B.Sc. (N) first-semester students from the Institute of Nursing participated enthusiastically, presenting unique, creative, and practical projects that demonstrated the potential of waste materials. Their impressive efforts earned them First Place in the competition.

2. Plastic Collection with Awareness:

In this initiative, participants were encouraged to collect plastic waste from around the campus and surrounding areas, while also raising awareness about the harmful environmental impact of plastic pollution. The students were tasked with not only gathering the plastic but also spreading awareness about the importance of plastic recycling and reducing single-use plastics. The Institute of Nursing students of Y. D. Mane Institute participated actively and collected an impressive 1400 kg of plastic, securing the First Runner-Up position for their outstanding contribution to the cause.

Outcome:

- The B.Sc Nursing first-semester students were awarded First Place in the Best Out of Waste competition, recognized for their creativity and the meaningful use of discarded materials.
- The Y. D. Mane Institute of Nursing secured First Runner-Up in the Plastic Collection with Awareness initiative, having collected 1400 kg of plastic from the community, showcasing their commitment to environmental sustainability.

Both achievements were celebrated by the Kagal Education Society and were a testament to the students' dedication to making a positive impact on society and the environment. The program got over at 02:00pm

The birthday celebration of Late Y. D. Mane Sir was a remarkable event that not only honored his memory but also promoted key values such as environmental consciousness, creativity, and social responsibility. The competitions provided an excellent platform for students to showcase their innovative ideas and actively participate in initiatives aimed at improving the environment. The success of the Institute of Nursing students in both the Best Out of Waste competition and the Plastic Collection with Awareness initiative highlights their commitment to these values.
